MADNESS

ABSOLUTELY Nutty Boys

"What's that you say?
'Avent seen Madness?
Where have you been reader?"

No folks, this isn't Madness (you know that group in Dance Craze), but an incredible simulation depicting the absolute zaniness of this group of seven. Nowhere will you find a band more dedicated to the simple idea of making great dance music and having a blow-out time. Finally, this year Madness' Kooky and unpredictable sound has been recognized by even the remotest hoi polloi, including the pep-squad (you rude girls). Here we see some original fans showing the rest of you where they've been for the past few . . . ONE STEP BEYOND

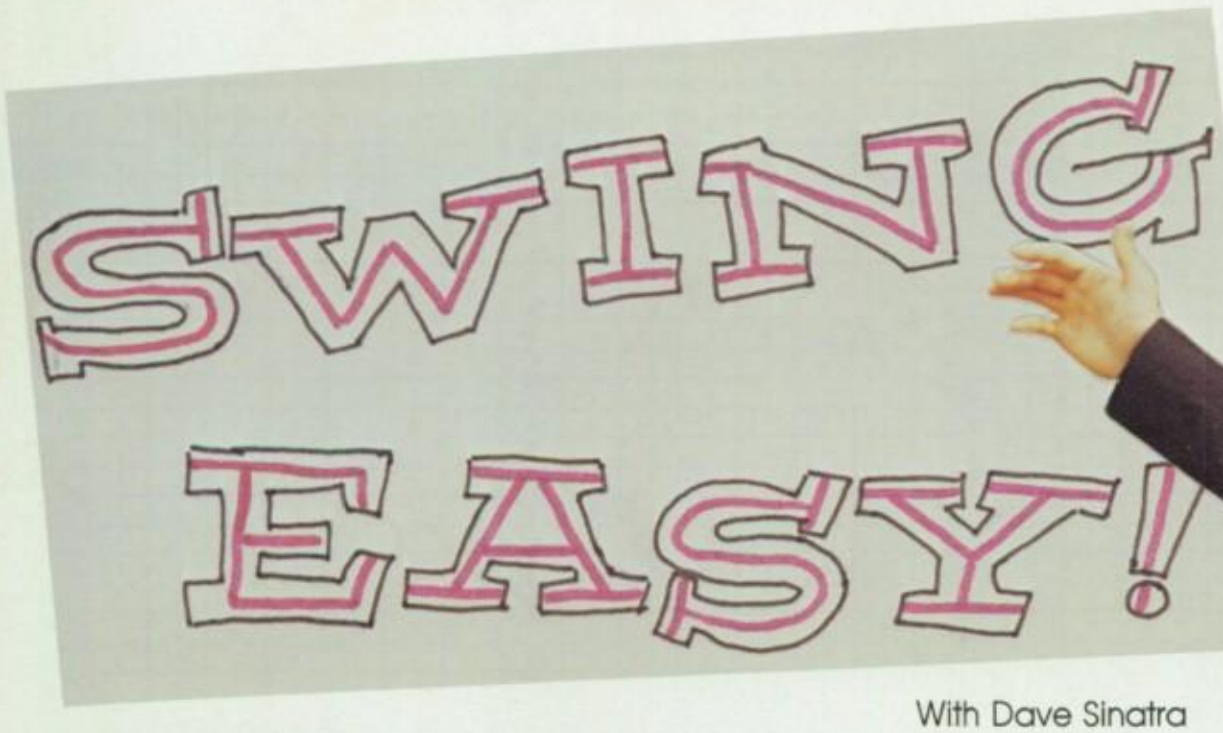
LONDON CALLING

THE WHO

Bye Bye Miss American Pie . . .



With Dave Sinatra

The Who electrified our student population as they performed for 95,000 crazed fans at the L.A. Coliseum during what was to be their final tour together. The event's impact upon the study body was very evident. Mods made themselves visible, and rarely did a day pass that a T-shirt from the tour was not proudly displayed. The Who has proved to be an indelible part of our school's character, and though they may no longer be working together, the power of their final tour will be remembered and evidenced in the final years to come.

"Excuse me while I light my spliff,
Oh God I've got ta' take a lift.
From reality I just can't drift,
That's why I'm stayin' with this riff."

Ras' Paul, our own Babylon warrior, is seen here enjoying a fine taste of Reggae Music. We never realized the striking resemblance between Ras' Paul and the late Bob Marley. The look in his eyes show deep thought. Imagining the final Exodus to Africa, he smiles, dreaming of Lamb's Bread in a Rub-a-Dub style. Iree, Right n' Tight. This year saw the birth of a few new clubs on the L.C. campus. One of these was the G.L.S.U. Gay Lesbian Student Union. These fellas are the charter members. Business meetings are held Saturday evenings at 7:00 at the Y.M.C.A. and a support group meets every Tuesday afternoon. Good luck, boys. We in the Omega staff congratulate you on your coming out of the closet.

As the trolls of the high Angeles Crest Mountains migrate towards our glorious school, many say they cast wicked spells on those who try to prevent their piligrimage. Geoff, a loyal troll, begins to take revenge upon Mark for parking his car in front of the troll bridge that enables the trolls to make their final assent upon La Canada. As Geoff casts the evil spell upon Mark with the aid of his magical green apple, Mark begins to experience a phenomenal transformation. Upon his previously butched head he begins to grow massive amounts of golden locks. Beware to all those who dare to provoke a troll.

After endless rough drafts, sleepless nights, battling the sticky "R" on the typewriter, "Writer's Block," and many untold horrors, the writing skills of these three finally paid off. Doug, Margaret, and Lisa and their essays "The Lighthouses' Warning," "Under the Ice," and "The Center of the Maze," represented LCHS in an essay contest sponsored by The National Council of Teachers of English. Their essays were chosen from a selection written by the students of Junior Honors English, 1982. Essays are sent in from over 18,400 high schools in the United States, Canada, and from American schools abroad. The essays are judged on the depth and quality of the writers' ideas, the clarity of their essay, and most importantly their power to inform and move their audience. In addition to their essay, Doug, Margaret, and Lisa were required to write on an impromptu theme concerning the importance of English in school. On the merit of her two selections, Lisa's essay was chosen out of thousands and received one of 876 certificates awarded. La Canada High School was proud to be represented by these three talented writers.

Due to the ever present lack of school related activities, this group of students sought refuge in the form of a hacky-sac. Stu "King Hacky" Kendall originally began playing the game because, as he puts it, "I was disappointed that the beautiful island of greenery in front of our school was going to waste. I originally began doing gymnastic routines on the lush turf, but was discouraged by the ever present grass stains on my trousers. I was then turned on to hacky by a friend." Thanks to Stu, the sport has gained a great deal of popularity.

A few weeks into the first quarter Carl began to have pains in his right back pocket. At first he shrugged it off as a ball of lint, but when it began to impede his walking ability, Dr. Shelly suggested surgery. Carl hesitant about an operation, decided to wait to see if the small ball, which Dr. Shelly found to be an aluminium cyst would grow any larger. By the third quarter the cyst of aluminium in his pocket, had blossomed into a can of Hawaiian Punch. Dr. Shelly decided the best approach to take was to stalk Carl and stick in a syringe when he least expected it. As an astonished Eric looked on, Dr. Shelly made her move. We are glad to report that Carl recovered beautifully and no longer has trouble walking; except on occasion when he sees a fellow Spartan drinking a can of Hawaiian Punch and recalls his terrible ordeal.

Every girl that grows up in the Pasadena area has the dream to someday ride down Colorado Blvd. on the beautiful Tournament of Roses float as a member of the royal court. This year our Senior class was proud to have both Julie Smith and Jennifer Winterbottom represent our school as finalists for the royal court of the Tournament of Roses. They were two of twenty-five finalists chosen from a contingent of a thousand girls who shared their dream of someday becoming Rose Queens. Although they weren't able to ride upon the magical float, they will carry the memory of being honored as one of the twenty-five finalists in 1983 forever.

He has competed in and won the Coleman Chamber Music Competition, the Brentwood Westwood Symphony Orchestra Solo Competition, and has been a soloist no less than nine times with the Community School of Performing Arts Orchestra. One of his greatest honors in 1982 was to win an audition in New York which led to a chance to solo with the New York Philharmonic (under the direction of Zubin Metha) in January of 1983. He was one of five chosen out of a contingent of fifty very talented young musicians. Andrew is very dedicated and committed to his music and is sure to be gracing the stages of many concert halls in the years to come.

Erin Logan, resident L.C.H.S. psychiatry expert (seen here with one of her patients, Jalie Schmidling), resents the disregard for the mentally disturbed at this school. "I'm tired of students walking around with garbage cans on their heads and coming to school in their pajamas." Students as well as the administration, have applauded Erin's attempts to normalize the youth of today. "I first noticed the problem at La Canada when one of my close friends came to school in her underwear, shocked by the reoccurring incidents, I knew something had to be done." Because of her concern for the well-being of the students body, the administration has rewarded Erin with a tree "in remembrance" of her good deeds.

The familiar fun-sound of Winterose produced many good times for La Canada students. Their music filled countless parties and dances with a jovial mood. From progressive and pop, to surf and oldies, this group possessed a very special ability to entertain and lift the spirit. The extensive musical talent of Winterose was even more apparent when the original songs, composed and arranged by Kent Baxter and Jim Walker, were performed. Clean and colorful was this band's style, and when they started rolling, the kids started rocking.

The new hit record, Mousercise, is a collection of spunky tunes which aerobic fans world-wide are going crazy over. Charlie, an avid fan of "The Richard Simmons Show" ran down to our local record store to purchase a copy. Sales have been incredible! Charlie swears by the record and claims it has done a world of good for his biceps. In his new revivified state, Charlie has been visiting many of Southern California's most popular radio stations to promote the album. On a recent visit to the KLOS business office, Charlie convinced them to play the hit in its entirety on a lunch-time special. In attribute to Charlie's enthusiasm, Walt Disney Productions has named him "Mr. Mousercise."

Many moons ago an ancient Indian burial ground was desecrated as the first stones in our school's foundation were set. The Holy ground beneath our Quad was the grave site of a famous warrior. As the story goes: the heroic brave was gloriously basking in the sun when a Polish settler came and shot him. Now, today, Charlie Hawkins (a direct descendant of the dead brave) works to maintain the honor of his dead great, great, great grandfather's grave. In a desperate attempt to rid the Quad of all students, Charlie continually hurles malicious objects off the third story. After being abducted by Voytek Delinski, Charlie was heard saying, "It was worth it, Gramps would have wanted it this way." Shane Gazan (reportedly the illegitimate son of V.D.) refuses to respect this ancient site. Although so far, the only revenge has been in the form of water and flour drops. Charlie says, "unless Shane mends his ways and repents, more drastic measures will be taken."

Stress takes its toll.

The highly motivated students of La Canada High School are often subject to incredible degrees of self-inflicted stress. Many will live and die for their G.P.A. during this nine-month cram festival. Tales of terror are related by students who have battled sleep throughout the night to complete the impossible assignment. Asked why he tortures himself in this way, David Gilmour replied, "Because it feels so good when it's over. In fact, I've never felt as good as I do right now; I've just aced Mrs. Patterson's chemistry final, and it was the last test of my entire high school career." Then, hurling his papers skyward, he became airborne from a nearby flight of stairs, and, running down the hall he could be heard screaming, "That's it! It's Over! I'm outta here! See you at the reunion! Good-bye! I'm gone!"

Despite their poor showings in the past, the Juniors came oh so close to winning the coveted honor of best homecoming float. In the long run, the awards and prizes were only a small part of the excitement of Homecoming week. The real thrill was generated through dress up days, class competition, and float building. The Juniors were also the only victims of float raiding.

When LC adolescents reach sophomore year, they begin to discover the joys of friendship. Girls and boys do more things together, and students begin to realize their sexuality. Some youths find these experiences a frightening thing and put off intenser heterosexual relationships for another year. These kids go back to the security of old friends, and are happy just spending times together.

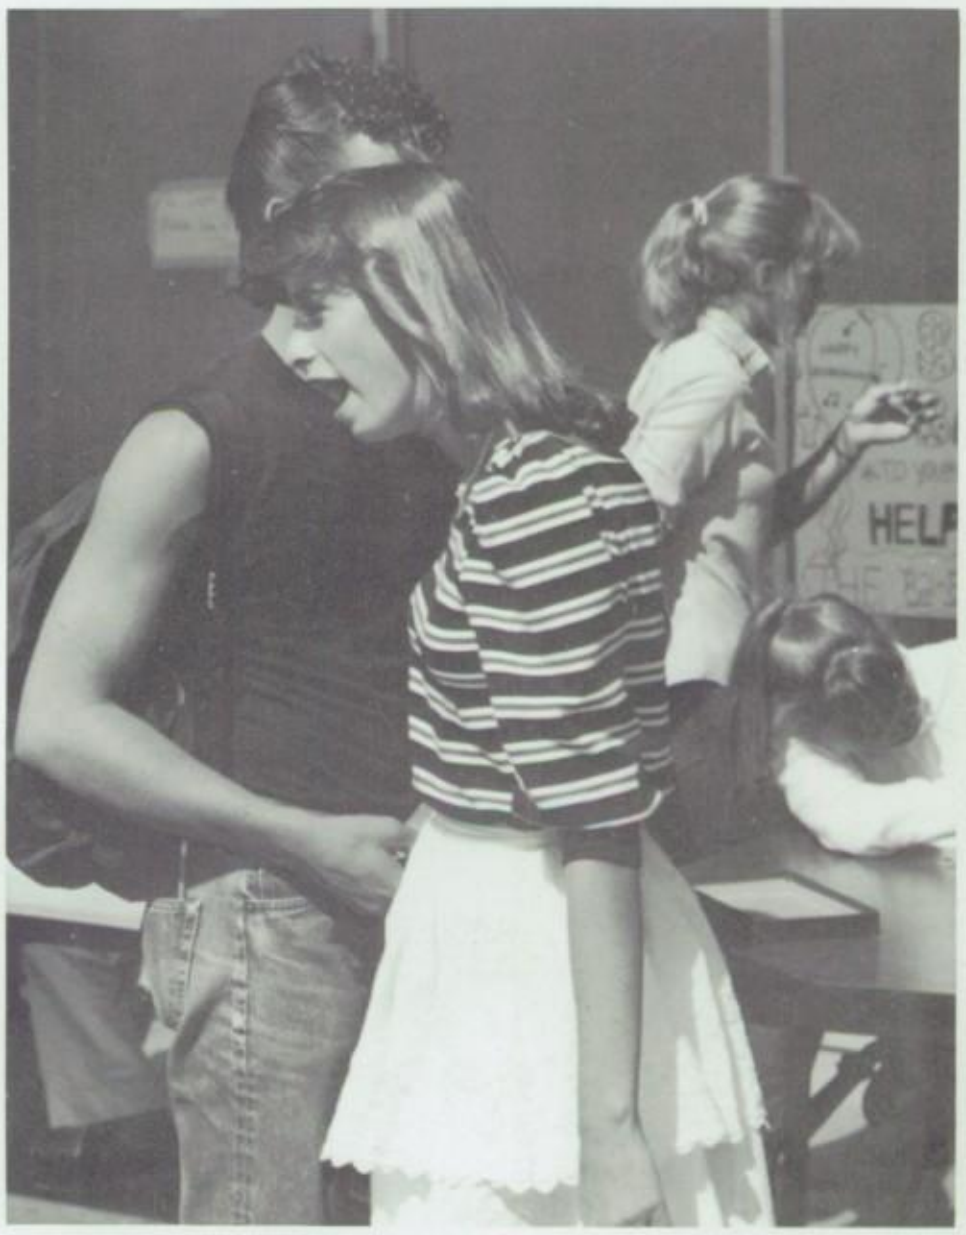
50's day was a grand time for most kids — especially for the girls — as it was the day the Fonz came to school. He arrived in a sleek black, chauffer driven motorcycle dressed in one of his many black sleeveless shirts and levi's. His many assistants herded the excited females into the quad and set up the registration tables. For the fee of one dollar these lucky girls receive a sweet nothing in the ear from Mr. Cool.



He says that to all the girls.

Upperclassmen are always there when you need them. This group of distraut sophomores are receiving some helpful hints on the virtues of teenage relationships from someone who knows. The girls listen on in awe as they hear harrowing tales of boys with sweaty palms and food between their teeth. Jackie assures the girls that dating, no matter how awful it sounds, can be a very enlightening experience. Jackie admits that dating has opened many new drawers for her, and she feels that the others should follow suit.

As the end of the year rolls around, a sort of rite of passage begins to take place amongst the sophomore class. When next year comes upon them, these students will no longer be labeled as underclassmen. As part of the promotion, Jim Bennett, in a gesture of tearjerking sentiment, had to give up his Teddy and start making new friends.

Taking full advantage of the availability of soft drinks at our campus, this group of students sip and enjoy the coveted soda over casual conversation at Freshmen orientation. Having been denied soda pop at F.I.S., these youngsters look forward to the opportunity to purchase and consume soft drinks during school hours. Hagen, in an attempt to discipline the students in a preschool, kindergarten like manner, stifled the hopes of the new students. During a formal speech at the orientation, Hagen vowed to ban all soft drinks and junk food from our campus, and he stated, "from now on, we will only sell milk and nilla wafers."

What's the matter you, ain't ya got no respect?

Mr. Macho himself, John Parker, displays how cool he can be while having a drink with his buddies. Freshmen find it hard adjusting to the difficult schedules and the longer classes and can only count the minutes until activity period rolls around. They just love to run down to the student store and stock up on Tootsie Rolls and Hot Tamales. John doesn't need these sugary substitutes. All he can say as he waltzes out of class is, "It's Miller time!!"

In an attempt to stimulate campus improvement, the administration offered a $25.00 award to any student who designed the best new look for the quad. This group of overseers have found their solution to the problem. They say, that it's not as much the needs improving, but the people in it. As Alex Tannors puts it, "I'm tired of the way people dress, they all look so different, everything looks messy and unorganized. I think we should have a dress code. Boys should wear red union suits while girls should dress in yellow long underwear with flowers decorating the private parts." Hagen assured Alex that her proposal would be discussed at the next board meeting.

Haight Ashbury exchange students

The spirit of the 60's was momentarily revived this year when "Tricky Dick" fooled us again. Trio's of flower children found inner peace and love while others were pacified by the real thing. Two secret service agents, well disguised in the orange and pink outfits, kept a keen eye on the festive activities. All the excitement was further accented by the fabulous Omega Dance. The event drew record crowds dancing to the tunes of The Beatles, The Doors, and other bands of the time.

Our Hero

One bright sunny day, when all seemed well, and happy students came to school wearing their favorite Hawaiian shirts they did not realize the horrors that awaited them. It was in the Quad where the hellish nightmare began. Fish — gold ones — thousands of them. Happily students threw seemingly harmless ping-pong balls at the little beasts when suddenly chairman of the Gold-fish committee, Nancy Volk's pinky was devoured by one. Before the helpless students could defend themselves, the gold-fish were on a rampage starting with the 700 wing and working their way east to the front office. By an amazing coincidence Raffi Najarian was wearing his special scale reflector spectacles and was able to turn back the rising hoard of Piscium. An award for saving our fair school, he was awarded the coveted Baklava Spare Tire.

Seniors Did It Their Way

The raiding of the freshman float remained an L.C. tradition this year as a group of senior vigilantes snuck over to Freshman Float Headquarters and stole it. They brought it back to the L.C. football field where they promptly blew it sky high for the hundreds of ticket holders in attendance. The bewildered freshmen tried to repair their scattered float but to no avail, as you can see. The seniors won gaining the winning points for "the innovative destruction of the freshmen entry."

A sour note.

"This message will self-destruct in five seconds."

Well here we have it, the backwards dance. The event that L.C. hums in anticipation with for days, months, years in advance. When at last you finally get the guts up to ask the dreamboat of your heart, the planning of the evenings activities are scheduled to the precise moment. The dinner reservations are made four months in advance, the nights conversations written and dittoed for all 32 of your dinner party, and the common etiquette for slow dances and porch goodnights are disected and anticipated, the evening is ready to go. When the conversation flows from the weather to religion, the dinner reservations only accommodate three and the only slow song the band plays is "Stairway To Heaven," you know the night is a perfect success. Time it was, and what a time it was. A time of innocence ....

In La Canada there is a social law which is understood. One must be learned in these areas of social graces. The process begins in 5th grade with Mr. and Mrs. Golatz (as in go-lots-of-places). Fear of being a social outcast is early learned as Mrs. Golatz's sons, dressed as mobsters, watch over your every move. You grow older and soon it is your "friends" who guard your every move, making sure you are acting in accordance with the Golatz laws. You become paranoid and search for guidance. Some search in books while others look to the quad where all the REAL laws are set. The jig is up when someone suddenly approaches you and asks you to kindly remove your gum into the napkin.

We in Omega decided to prove the imbeciles at the Times wrong by giving real-life instances of innocent, quad-life lunch club activities.

These devices include drinking the juices of dead prairie dogs, (an old Zulu custom), eating the lawn of their front yard, and piercing their abdomens with dull, rusty, used hypodermic needles.

Yosemite is one of the most beautiful spots that Grandmother Nature has to offer. For five days during the second semester many fortunate L.C.H.S. students had the opportunity to leave their houses of skin and travel to the magnificent Yosemite Valley (home of the wombat). These students of the wild were faced with many great challenges during these five days. Besides backpacking 2 miles in and out of a giant sequoia grove, they were faced with the impossible challenge of keeping dry, keeping their sanity, and keeping themselves from killing the counselor who sang like a cow in heat. The Yosemite Valley though seemingly peaceful, may be quite dangerous at times. One never knows when a torso-killer may pop out from behind a tree, and wolverines can get mighty hungry when they haven't eaten for five days. Those who went on the Yosemite trip will all contest to the fact that the experience was enlightening, enjoyable, and as a whole hillarious. 1982 Football

Spartan Football improved with each game. Due largely to the persistence of Coach Schaafsma, they never gave up. The games were heartbreaks, most being lost in the final seconds, and seldom were the players owned by the other team. Jeff Rogers and Scott Crebs were selected 1st Team All-Rio Hondo League, while a score of others were 2nd Team and Honorable Mention. The offense was led by team MVP Dave Blackwell, while the defense was led by Ray Achterman, the most versatile athlete on the field, so when it came to hits, you know they were big. Carl Halter, John Lutz, Chris Easter and Chris Smith were the Spartan's top receivers. Riebling, Schwartz and Parker, who were all D.B.'s that started as juniors last year, kept their opponents to under 40% in pass completions. One thing about their season is for sure; it didn't resemble their record. Fans didn't believe in them, but they believed in themselves, and gained the respect of everyone they played. Faced with adversity, they never gave up, a characteristic which will serve them in later life.

Recovering from last year's exercise in futility, this year's varsity water polo team managed to turn in an impressive season through the endeavors of coach Joey Kidushum. Excelling under the leadership of captains Kevin Cloud and Keith Aldrich, the team finished strong in a suddenly competitive Rio Hondo League. John Larsen crushed San Marino with one of his finest races. Todd Rankin came through in the last few races of the year running right behind Geoff Spencer. With consistent efforts by Matt McQueen, Todd Broberg, and Chris Kwasizur, the team had an almost impeccable record. They stormed through the course to win league finals but lost in the preliminary run at C.I.F. As a bonus to their record they won Pebble Beach, Kenny Staub, and Stanford. This crew definitely went the distance.

After many painstaking and grueling hours of running workouts, this years girls cross country team proved to be the strongest six girl team in the area. Starting the season out with a fairly weak team, the girls ended with a victorious win of the title League Champions. The increasingly strong team went on to CIF prelims and qualified for finals, where they finished in tenth place. All six girls were strong runners thus aiding their strategy which lead them to many victories.

Camera shy: Margaret Klumpp, Kirstie McCornick, Andrea Rubendall, Julie Smith.

Once again, the La Canada Girls' Tennis Team has had an outstanding season. Finishing the Rio Hondo League in second place behind San Marino, the team advanced to CIF play offs with hopes of meeting their rivals in the finals. In the beginning of the play offs, La Canada beat Hart and Sunny Hills High Schools, placing them in the Quarter finals of CIF. In the quarter finals, La Canada met up against West Lake High School. After a grueling five hour match, La Canada lost by a score of 8-10. Their over all record for the season was 17-5. And though the team was forced out of CIF by West Lake, their number one doubles team advanced to the CIF Sectionals, to become one of the eight top doubles teams in Southern California.

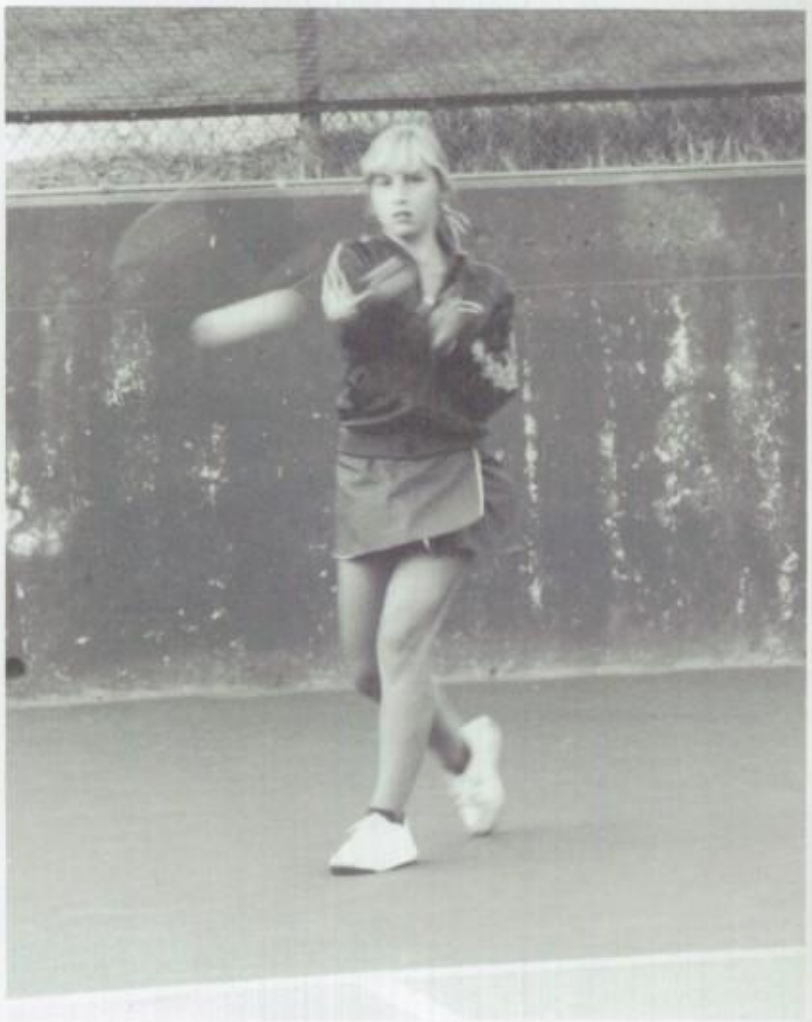
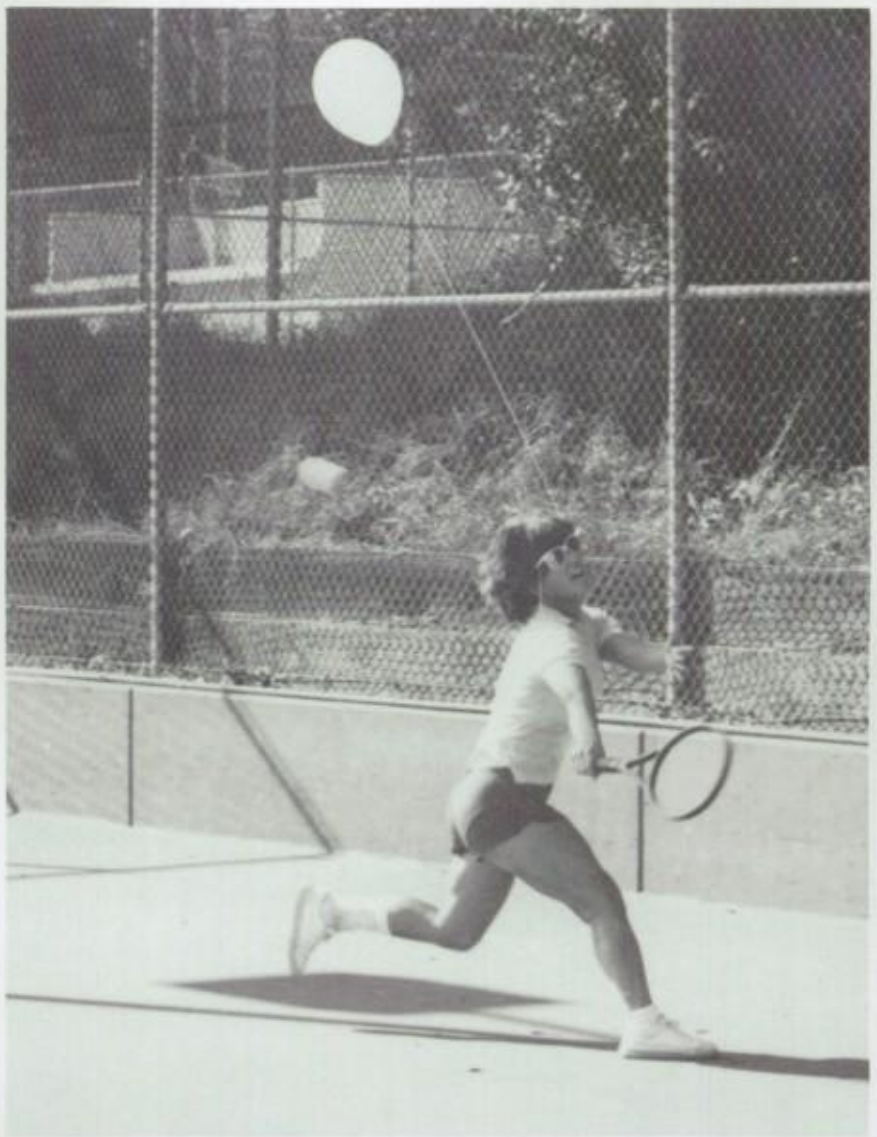
Great Balls of Fire!





The the past eight years, the moving force behind the La Canada Girls' Tennis Team has been their coach, Sally Spencer. Knowing the game in and out, she has produced teams that go to CIF year after year. Coach Spencer has always stressed the importance of doing one's best, without being afraid to lose. It is this quality of determination and caring that makes her such an outstanding coach. And I'm sure that La Canada will be losing its finest tennis coach, with her departure from the team at the end of the year.

Gill and the Spartan Bop.

The varsity experienced its share of problems this year, but was always a formidable opponent, boasting 6'9 center Steve Brockmeyer, who could jam with the best of them, and shooter Flint Hughes, who really got airborne when the spell was on him. Other chief components were point guard Chris Dickson, who outclassed every other ballhandler on the court, and strong forward Rob Smith, who really made himself known to other teams. The fifth spot was not solid and that weakness hurt the team, but Rob Soule, Bart Kendall, Mark Morris, Shawn Evans, and Scott Trevithick filled in there and as needed. Eric Fults contributed from the point position; Doug Chapman hacked it up underneath and Pat Gillan always managed to stir the crowd. Next year only Morris returns but the J.V.'s were strong.

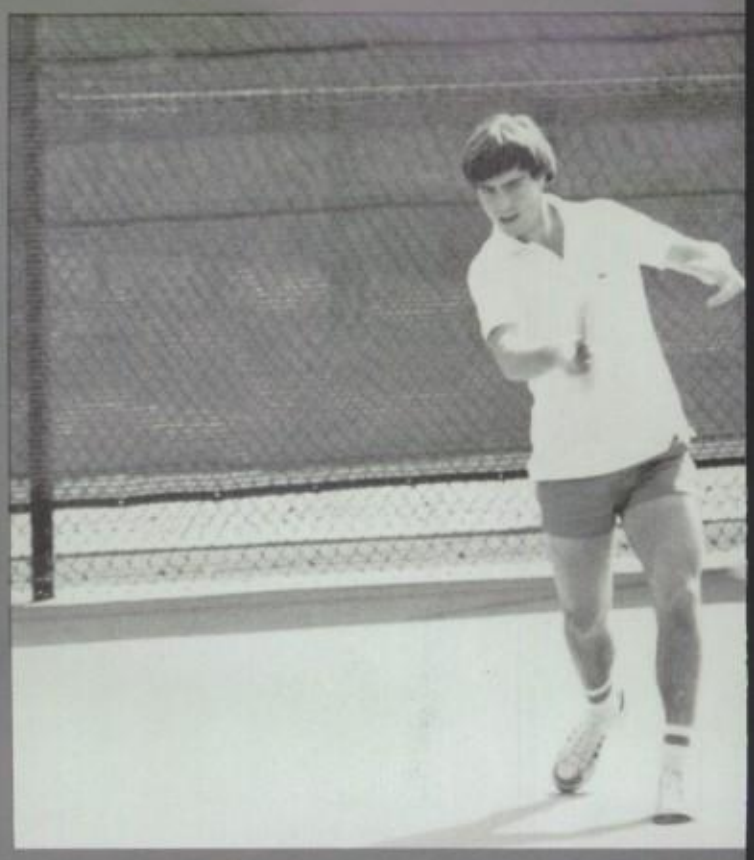
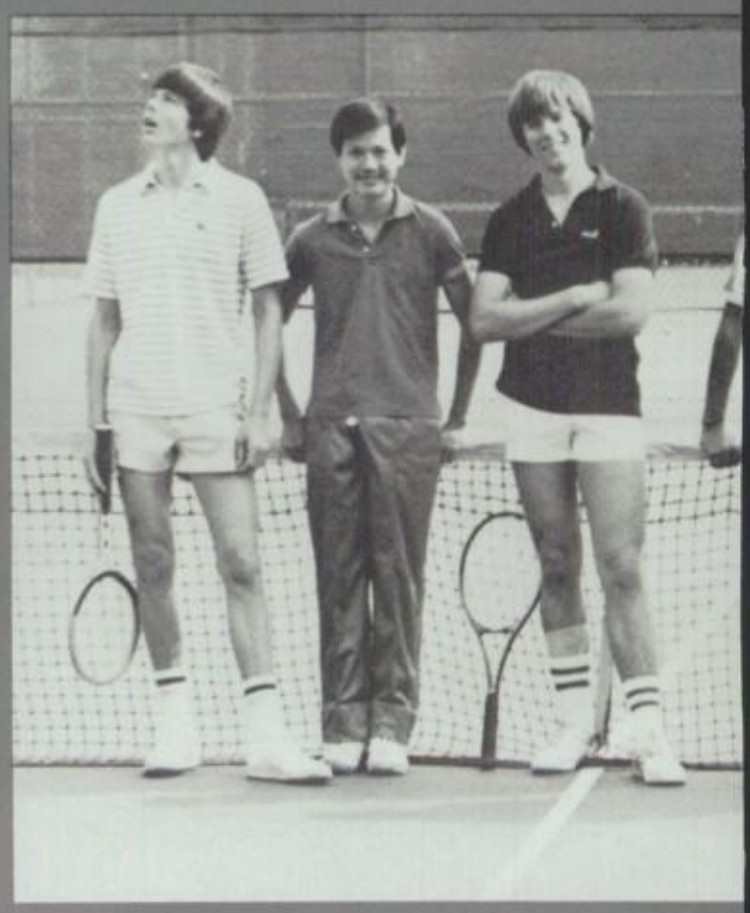
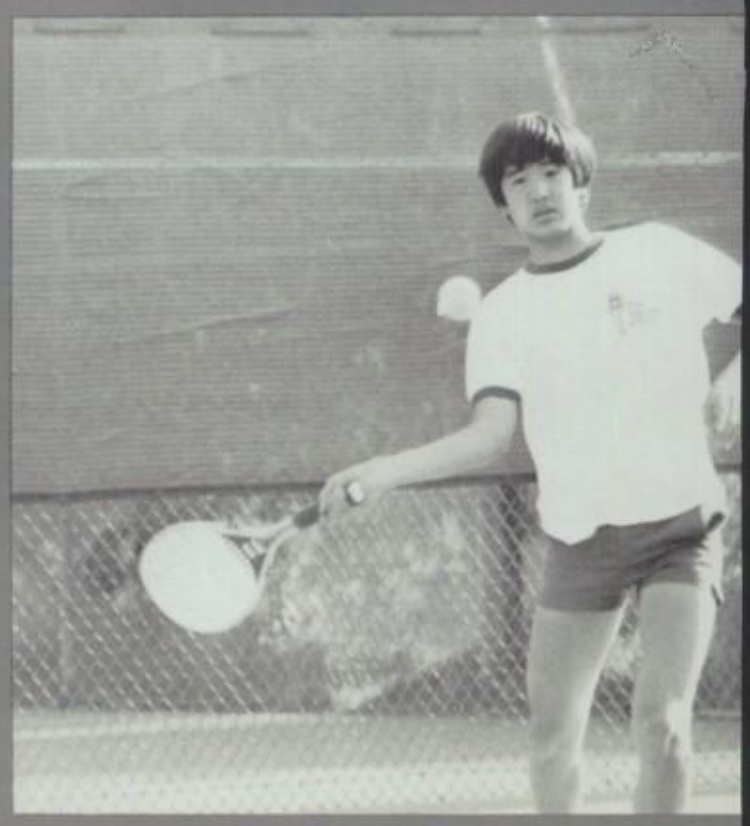
Tennis, Feelin' Free



How many is that Sean, 122?

Accidents Will Happen at Giraffe's Neck.





John Kim is now permanently crossed-eyed.

Today's L.C.H.S. Varsity tennis team, tough, dedicated, . . . obsessed! They crushed all of their opponents in pre-season using only "half-varsity" force. Reputed as the underdogs of the two super-powers in Rio Hondo tennis, L.C. Varsity managed to undermine San Marino's shot at a perfect record.

Leading off this outspoken team was the ranked-man Sean Stewart, who was dominate over the entire league. Not far behind was ranked John Kim. John, while fighting a drinking problem, managed to reinforce Sean all year by treein'. Doug Abbott was a threat to his opponents. Geoff Spencer played well when he wasn't thinking about "Sheep's Head". John Gilmour got so good that he lost reality and had to re-learn the entire game all season. Tim Forstrom, "big guy", missed the ball when his eyes were open. Julian Ong figured his chances of playing varsity by the chain "saw" rule, anti-differentiation, and implicitly deriving a cat, and made it. And our fearless Captain, Scott Draper, played best with cat gut, . . . MIMI!

This year proved to be quite trying for the Girls Varsity Basketball Team. Even though the team lost more games than won, the season was still considered successful because the team developed into a hard-working squad. Outstanding efforts were made by seniors Margaret Klumpp, an awesome rebounder; Kimbo Smith, a quick, aggressive hussler; Heidi Hendricks, a strong outside shooter; and Ann Scheck, an all-around improved player. The Girls faced some tough competition, especially from two new teams that were added to the Rio Hondo League — Monrovia and Blair. We shared laughter and tears, frustration and fears, but when we were victorious, we were glorious! What can we say Jess? We did our best . . .

Wrestling: Slam Dance Cosmopolis.

This years wrestling team was the strongest ever to represent L.C. Dedication with long hours of torturous practice was the method that coaches Larry Moore and Ed Geraghty used to boost this squad to their league threatening prominence. There were several individual wrestlers that made the news and helped the team to gain recognition in Southern California. Dork Alahaydoian took a third place medal at the Rio Hondo League Finals along with Bryan Damon who snatched a second place, and John Saul returned to take first place for the second time in his high school career. John went on to gain a fourth place medal at C.I.F., and closed the locker door with a 34-3 record. Bryan placed fifth at C.I.F., and ended his season with a record of 38-7. Next year's team will include many returning lunatics, and they are expected to render the other Rio Hondo teams unconscious.

L.C.'s Varsity soccer team this year had to survive the loss of more than half of its starters, due to graduation, but we came back with more talent than you could shoot at. First, we got a new coach. His name was Joseph (Don't Call Me Joe) Archer, and he was a former all-american, so he really knew the game. He lectured us. He coached us. He ran us into the ground with his dreadful (I figured it out) 342 yard sprints. But we took it with pride and became a team.

Under the intense dedication and coaching abilities of coaches Cain Miller and Bobbie Estes, this year's boys' and girls' swim team showed an outstanding performance in the 3A division of league and C.I.F. These swimmers are among the most dedicated and hard working of athletes, putting in up to four greuling hours of workouts a day around adverse pool conditions.

After placing second in C.I.F. last year, this year's girls' swim team proved to be even stronger. Returning stars from last years C.I.F. competition were last year's M.V.P. Sally Loomis, Kristin McQueen, Erin Emge, and Sheri Palermo.

The boys' team was headed in spirit by comedians Raffi Najarian and Steve Hansen. This year included an outstanding season with performances by Derek Emge, Ben Martin, and freshmen Greg Simmons and Pat Klune.

This 1983 season brought together the most widely distributed group of players in the eight year history of the Girls' Varsity Softball Team. The team had four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and three freshmen. Big Seniors on the team were Linda Buck (OF), Vicky Goode (OF), Heidi Hendricks (OF), and Lori Williams (C). Also on the team were the following outstanding players: Jackie Dubin, Andrea Gray, Karen Gress, Kerrie Gorman, Julie Kucera, Jodi Harrison, Jean Tucker, and Lauren Reynolds. This year's battle was a toughie, but as always, the women studs of the sports world pulled through and had an outstanding season. ZYXWVUTSRQPONMLKJIHGFEDCBA . . . ahhh!

After winning league last year, Coach Logan and his hamburgers set out to defend their title from the start. Under the superb leadership of assistant coaches Ralph Turner and Bo Roberson, Logan's teams couldn't be beat. With Captain Halter, Achterman, Blackwell, Swanaon and Johnson in the sprints; Hudson, Parker, Schwartz, and Riebling on the hurdles; Larsen, Broberg, Rankin, and both Trevithicks in the distances; and Klingerman, Herrgesell, and Tierney in the field events, the Spartans had the necessary depth for league and C.I.F. domination. When asked to comment on the team, Coach Pat, the winningest coach in the history of the school, stated, "We really put it to them."

OK, to please Margaret Klumpp we'll say something about the Girls' Track Team too. Seriously, the L.C.H.S. Girls' Track Team was one of the best in the history of the school. The difference between this team and the teams in the past was its willingness to work hard and its determination to put forth its best effort. With the help of excellent coaching, the team proved to dominate the competition from the very start, defeating their toughest opponent, C.V. High School. Some of the teams most outstanding members this year Diane Clark in long jump and sprints, Kathryn Riebling in sprints, Ann Wasson in sprints, Jennifer Schuele in sprints; Anne van Berkhou in distances, and Kathy Otte in hurdles.

Coming of a strong finish last year, this year's varsity golfers hoped for another successful season. It was a long road, the team had to navigate gaping bunkers and unseen water hazards but in the end, their hopes were not thwarted. Intense concentration and natural talent led the way for the power team. Under Bob Bender's skilled direction, Dave Privett and Dave Gannon consistently scored well, Bart Kendall hit the long drives, Rob Northcutt was good around the greens and Freshman star Steve White added to the winning effort.

For security reasons, this was as close as we could get to Privett and White.

The Varsity Baseball Team of 1983 showed a great amount of talent and depth. A young squad, comprised mostly of juniors, exhibited great skills both on the field and at the plate. Led by the pitching of seniors Eric Fults and Shawn Evans, and by the hitting and fielding of Bruce Edwards, Dave Stradling, Kurt Wildermuth, Larry Webb, and Eric Wood, the Varsity Spartans earned a reputation for the skill and sportsmanship preached by Head Coach Gary Lievre. In his second year as head coach of the Spartans, Lievre has surrounded himself with a great deal of talent. Aided by his Assistant Coach Ron Gordon (and his son, Matthew) he's molded a team of champions, with old fashioned hard work and drills on the fundamentals. They are a team of winners.

JANE FONDA'S WORKOUT

This year's Girls' Athletic Advisory Board has been working very hard on some key projects to help increase recognition for the girls' athletics programs. Weekly sports articles published in the community newspapers have helped the city to keep abreast of girls' sporting events while the board has also contributed time and energy to the various year-end sports banquets. Overall, though, the Boards major project this year has been to raise money to construct a Girls' Athletic Hall of Fame. The recognition Hall will be located in the gym as a permanent record of outstanding girls' athletic contributions to our school. Hey, even Jane Fonda would be proud.

The play had shock value in both the story and the final scene. Most of the audience didn't know whether to laugh or take it seriously. If anyone was offended then we just assumed they hadn't seen much theater recently.

The Spartan Singers had an outstanding 1982-83 season. This group of freshman and sophomore girls performed at the Christmas concert, the Spring Choral concert, and an SCVA festival. One of the highlights of their year was to perform, by invitation, for the SCVA Judges Clinic in Pasadena in October. Once again, the LCHS Concert Choir distinguished itself with excellent performances throughout the year. They sang in our own Christmas program and participated in the Baccalaureate Service. For the fifth straight year, this fine ensemble joined with seven other high school choirs in the highly competitive festival sponsored by Loyola Marymount University. Mr. Paul Salamunovich, one of our country's finest choral directors, was the adjudicator. In addition, the Choir performed in the LCHS Spring Choral concert and took a one day excursion to Orange County, culminated by an SCVA festival.

GUYS & DOLLS

1983 Madrigals

This highly select group of LCHS singers enjoyed a very successful and rewarding year. Filling the agenda for this a capella ensemble were numerous community programs, the Christmas and Spring concerts, and the Loyola Festival. They traveled to central and northern California for their annual spring tour, missing a week of school and performing for schools, churches, and service clubs in San Luis Obispo, Moro Bay, Pacific Grove, Carmel, Arroyo Grande, Santa Maria, and Ojai. The Madrigals stayed in the homes of members of these various groups. All tour expenses were raised by the students and this week of singing proved to be a valuable experience for all, even chaperones "shady" Glenn Perrin and "jolly" Jerry Klocek. At the head of the CHORUS LINE was president Jeannie Weyl and the MUSIC MAN, John Kelsey.

The Math Club

Mu Alpha Theta

Under the fearless leadership of Fred Hansen, The Math Club and Mu Alpha Theta, for advanced math students, have consistently been one of the most active clubs on our campus. With the help of Julian Ong, President, Ann Scheck, Vice President, Doug Abbott, Treasurer, and Lisa Goldstein, Secretary, this year has been no exception. During the school year various members competed in math tournaments around California and performed very well. The Math Club and Mu Alpha Theta also organized a math fair for our local seventh and eighth graders. It gave the junior highers a great opportunity to discover that there is more to math than x's and exponents. Those of you that think The Math Club's only interests lie in numbers, think back to those Basketball games of 1983. As you sat there watching the ball bounce down the court, and your stomach started to growl, you knew that just around the bleachers The Math Club was selling some great junk food. You can thank the Math Club and Mu Alpha Theta for satisfying your hunger and proving there's more to math than numbers.

KEYWANETTES

The Keywanettes, a community service group organized by our high school girls, has accomplished much this year. They are a sub-unit of the Kiwanis Club of La Canada and therefore, use the Kiwanis meetings as fundraisers by selling coffee and snacks. Around Thanksgiving they make chocolate turkey suckers and at Valentine's Day candy heart "candy grams" — each which create big sales among our students. During the Christmas season the Keywanettes caroled at the Montrose Retirement Home and sang with the newly organized Key Club at the Kiwanis Christmas Meeting. Our girls also collected clothes and made Christmas dinner for two needy families! One of the Keywanettes' greatest accomplishments is supporting an Indian girl in North Dakota year round. After all their hard work, these girls finally get to treat themselves to skiing and beach trips a couple of times a year.

WHAT IS KEY CLUB?

Key Club is a service organization for high school students. It operates under school regulations and draws its membership from the student body. The Key Club is uniquely different from other organizations in many ways. First, Key Club is unique because it is sponsored by a local Kiwanis Club composed of the leading business and professional men of the community. The Kiwanis Club of La Canada — Flintridge sponsors the LCHS Chapter of Key Club. Secondly, Key Club is unique for its aim in the development of initiative leadership ability, and good citizenship practices. Thirdly, Key Club is unique because it is not solely on the local level. There is a District and an International level which are highly developed and uniquely structured, and provide Key Clubbers the opportunity to relate to teenagers from all across the North American Continent. Lastly, Key Club is the largest service organization of its kind in the world with over 95,000 members and some 3,400 clubs.

National Honor Society

La Canada High School held its second annual National Honor Society Installation Ceremony, adding 118 Senior, Junior, and Sophomore members to the growing society. The grade requirement for acceptance is a 3.5, and each student must exhibit strong scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service. The members are involved in community and school service projects, and this year they supported the canned food and clothing drives. At the end of the year, the National Honor Society offers four scholarships to graduating Seniors.

TALK·TALK

Under the superb guidance of advisor James McDonnell, Speech and Debate Club began its annual gab session. Our first tournament was held at U.C.L.A. Then, several of our foreign influenced members tried their mouths at the Harvard Speak-Off where they were awarded places and honors. Overnight events at Cal State Fullerton were rewarding and challenging experiences where our talkers received semi-finals status. Equally exhilerating were the Dominquez and Millikan High competitions where at Millikan Senior Rod Moore received first place in Humorous Interpretation. From there we followed our wild lips from Alhambra to San Diego and state finals where several of our members obtained impressive awards.

Shadows and Light

Seven fanatic forensics qualified for the State Speech Finals at San Diego State in May. The funny men were Scott Tibbetts, Kevin Messick, and Rod Moore. Todd Zondler competed in Impromptu. Matt Burrows and Mike Fine talked their way through Student Congress. George Rappard qualified in four events but was restricted to competing in two at the state finals — Debate and Extemporaneous.

Degrees of Distinction were awarded to President Rod Moore, Junior George Rappard, and Freshman Todd Zondler. Mr. McDonnell was awarded a Diamond Key by the National Forensic League and in May was elected President of the California High School Speech Association and District Chairman for the National Forensic League for Orange County and East Los Angeles County.

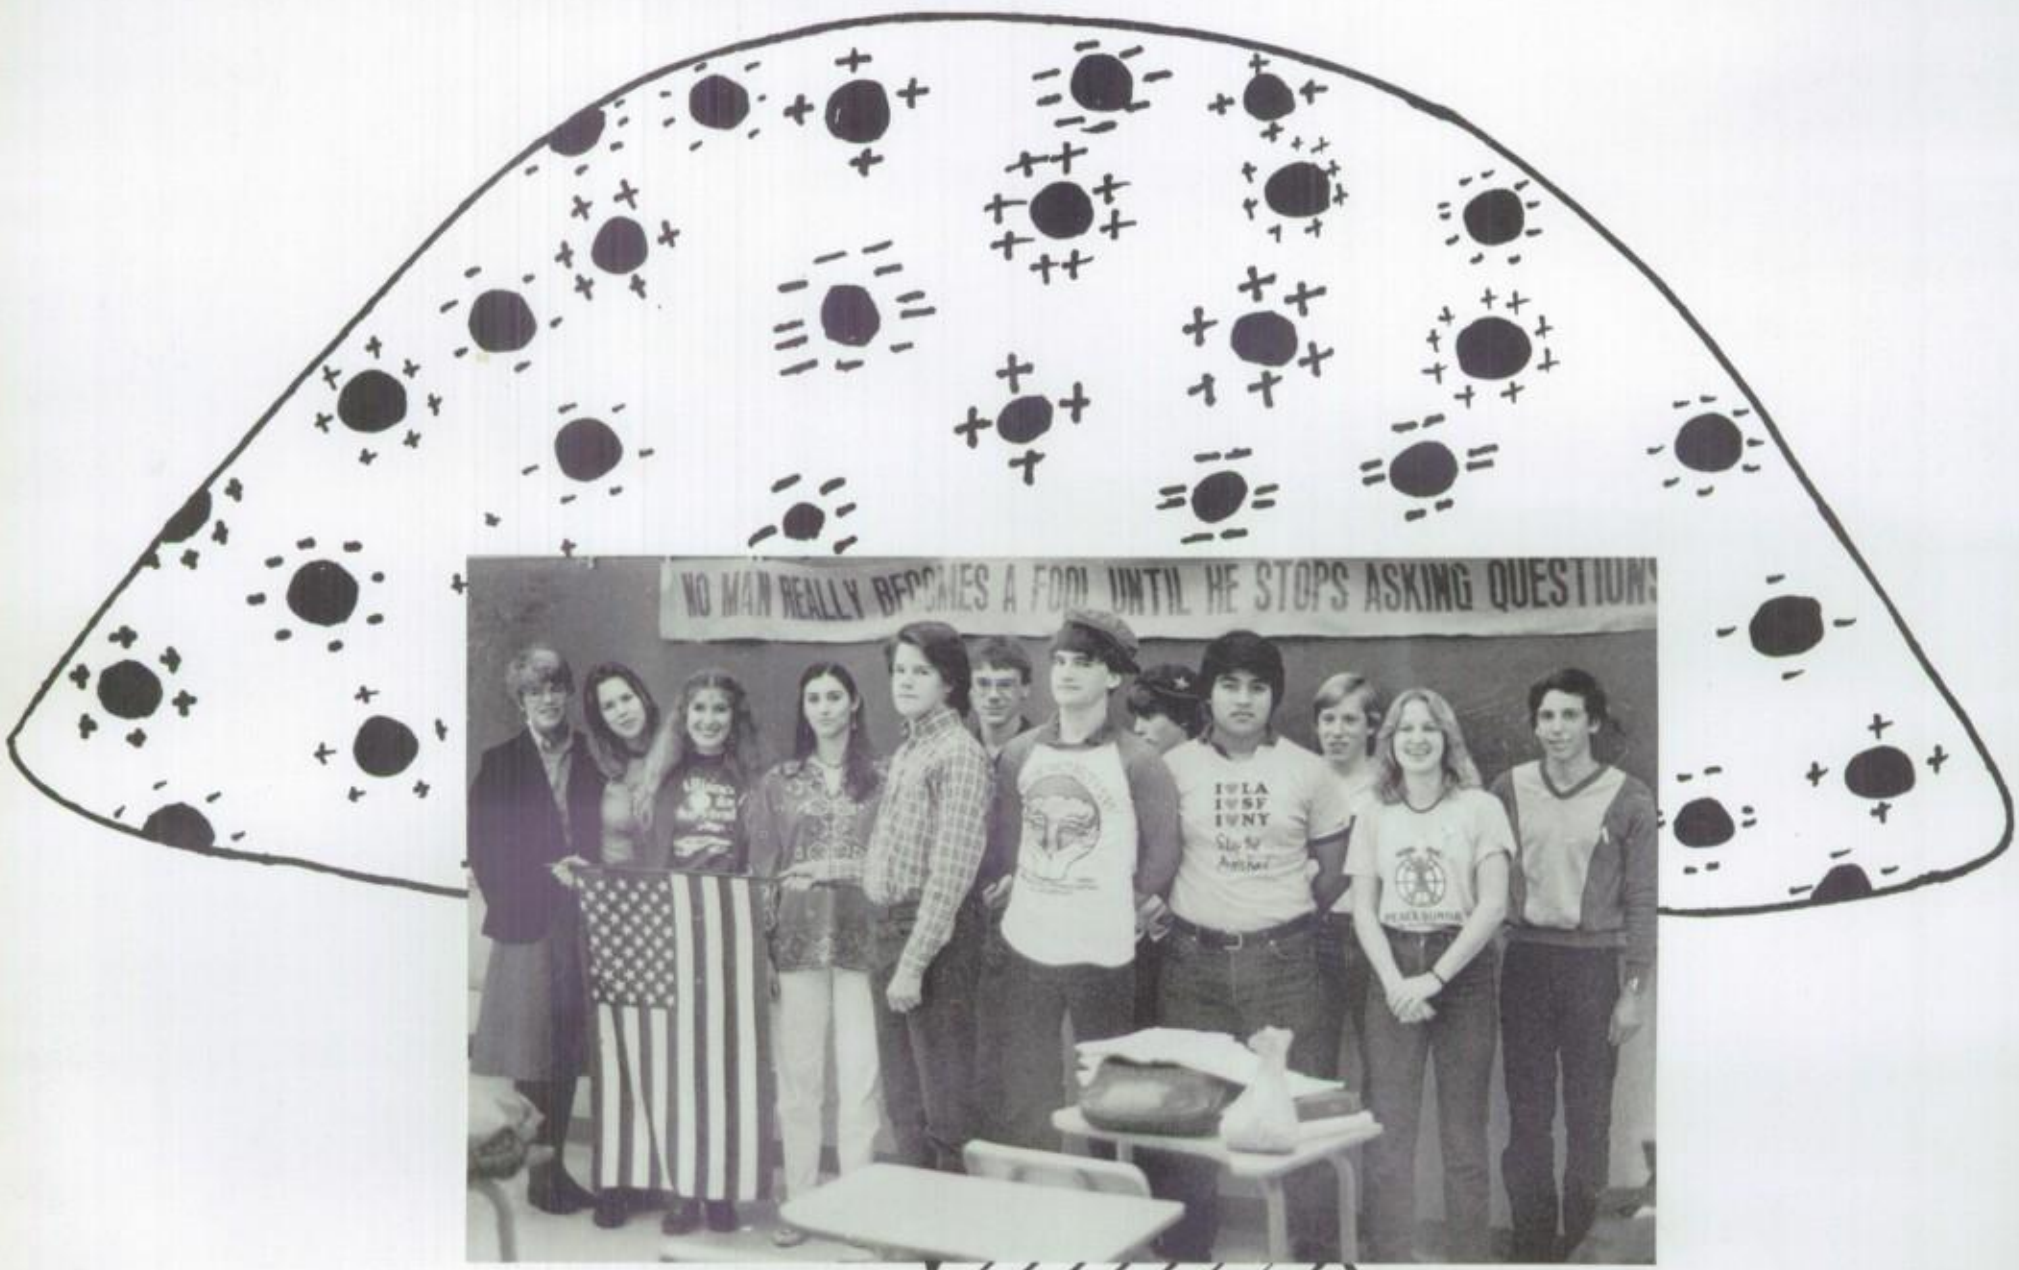
DRAMA CLUB

AL JOLSON
the JAZZ SINGER

The Chess Club Sponsored by Ollie Orcutt was first established to provide this group of trouble makers with a place to compete and release anxieties. The use of the game has proved to be a great success, not only does it keep these ruffians off the streets, but also the game's strategy has given the students futuristic ideals.

CHESS CLUB

DAMN THE TORPEDOS



The Peaceful Atoms, the La Canada Chapter of the Alliance for Survival, was co-founded this year by Diana White and Hillary Morgan with Mrs. Laine as its sponsor. The organizations main emphasis was to inform the students about the pros and cons of having nuclear power and weapons. Although the regular members were anti-nuclear, any student or staff member was welcome to attend its meetings regardless of his or her stand on the issue. These meetings consisted of several movies on the subject, as well as talks by members and outside speakers.

SOFT CELL

Science Club

A gala affair, these longheads of science specialize in any practical knowledge at L.C.H.S. Those who view these spuds as derelicts are themselves sons of Martha; Q.E.D. These peerless apostles of technology refrain from social intercourse with the stagnant minds of the priggish riff-raff and the lowborn offscouring of society. Not oafish enough to drop lysergic acid diethylamide, they get a bang out of playing deep games with the phrenology boxes of the swinish multitude. True comprehension of their activities would remove one's resperation. If cogitating this makes you want to feed the fish, you can go tell it to the Marines, Jorge.

Non-Stop Sci-fi

Hitchhiking across the Galaxy is this year's project for the Science Fiction Clubs, sponsored by Miss Canavan. The members meet regularly to keep track of the many new science fiction books, movies, and conventions. The club's private library has grown like an amoeba from outer space. If sci-fi or fantasy is your special interest, drop in and join.

Ceramics Club

The last ceramics club members were seen peddling their wares near the lobby in the auditorium. Voytek D. tried to arrest them all for not obtaining the required Ceramic peddling license, No. 01695, but their fearless leader saved them all by smashing a clay pot over Voytek's head. However, this club now holds underground meetings every Wednesday disguised as the Lep-Nep Students.

Teach the children

F.T.A.

Future Teacher Association is a course that enables students to gain experience in classroom situations. Inter-action with the children and their teachers gives the students a sense of responsibility. While at the same time provides them with valuable learning techniques. Working anywhere from F.I.S. to Oak Grove Handicapp School, students help the children with academic subjects as well as assisting in the developing of their behavior. Most of all students find F.T.A. to be an awarding experience that will aid them in the future.

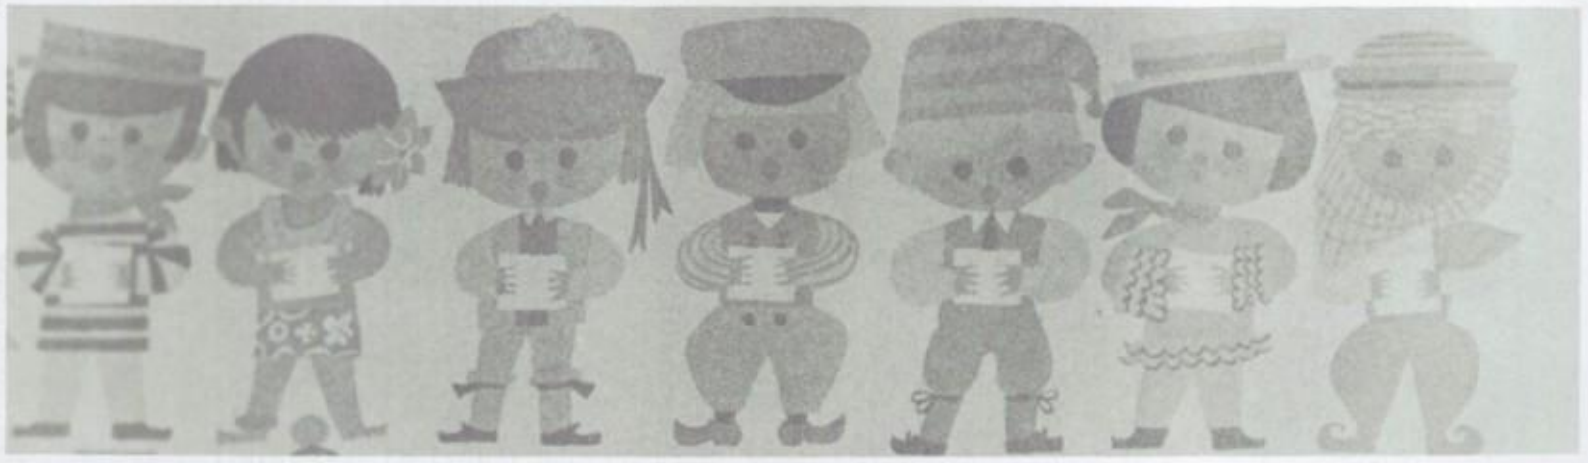
Peer Counseling

The Peer Counseling program has operated at L.C.H.S. for eight years. Peer counselors are trained in basic listening skills and serve as helpers and friends to other high school students — these may be individuals who are new to the school, or having academic difficulties or personal programs, or are mentally or physically handicapped. The Peer Counseling program also sponsors the annual Communication Day — an enrichment opportunity for students, teacher, counselors and parents. The pre-quisite is to attend the peer counseling class offered during summer school. The advisors are Doug Coe from L.C.H.S. and pupil personal, and Sue Valley and Carol Scheck from Y.M.C.A. Outreach.

Country Club presents

IT'S A SMALL WORLD



Contrary to popular opinion, Country Club members don't spend their time playing golf. Students join this club because of an interest in foreign countries and good foreign food. Yes, Country Club members often gather at lunchtime to find a delightful repast of foreign food waiting for them in the Foreign Language Resource Center. We also enjoy seeing slide shows given by students who have travelled to foreign countries. President Claudia Hess has worked hard coordinating Country Club activities with the assistance of advisor Sally Fisher. Country Club is a great place to meet new people and learn about foreign countries. Join us!

LAX

LAX ..... this is the beginning of the most exciting and varied year of my life! The most responsible people for this super time are the Hartries who had the endurance keeping me for one year in their household.

This year has not been free of some pretty tough culture shocks like the weird feeling of being hugged by a huge monster called "Minnie-Mouse". Also my first day at school was an enjoyable experience. Do you remember the assembly when the Harv. introduced me to the student body? I think it was the most embarrassing moment in my life when I felt as if I were being perforated by a thousand pairs of eyes and unable to generate more than the two words: "Hi folks".

During this year I really have learned a lot from you folks and your country and I hope that you also have learned a little from me. I say welcome to everyone who has the chance to come to my funny little country. There is always a candle burning for you in my window.

"Thank You Spartans"

I am Karin and I come from Holland. In this letter I'd like to say thank-you to all my friends and teachers who have helped me so much this year.

To begin with, the La Canada Marching Band that didn't give me time to think of my home in Holland. I hope they win first place at All Western next year. They can do it! Thank-you Mr. Richardson and all my friends from band.

Next I'd like to write about my excellent counselor, Mr. Coe. I have never had such a nice counselor. Thank-you Mr. Coe, you helped me very much this year, and I hope that my wish comes true to be a policewoman in Holland.

Also, Mr. Harvey, Miss Fisher, Mrs. Nichols, and Mrs. Wildermuth Thank-you for teaching me in your classes.

Thank-you Jeanne, John, David, Tim, Mary, and Catherine Sabourin for letting me stay in your home. I will miss my American mom, brothers, and little sisters as my own family, when I'm back in Holland.

I'm sure I also will miss this school and all my friends, when I'm back in Holland. WRITE ME!! I'd like to hear everything that happens next year. And I will write you back.

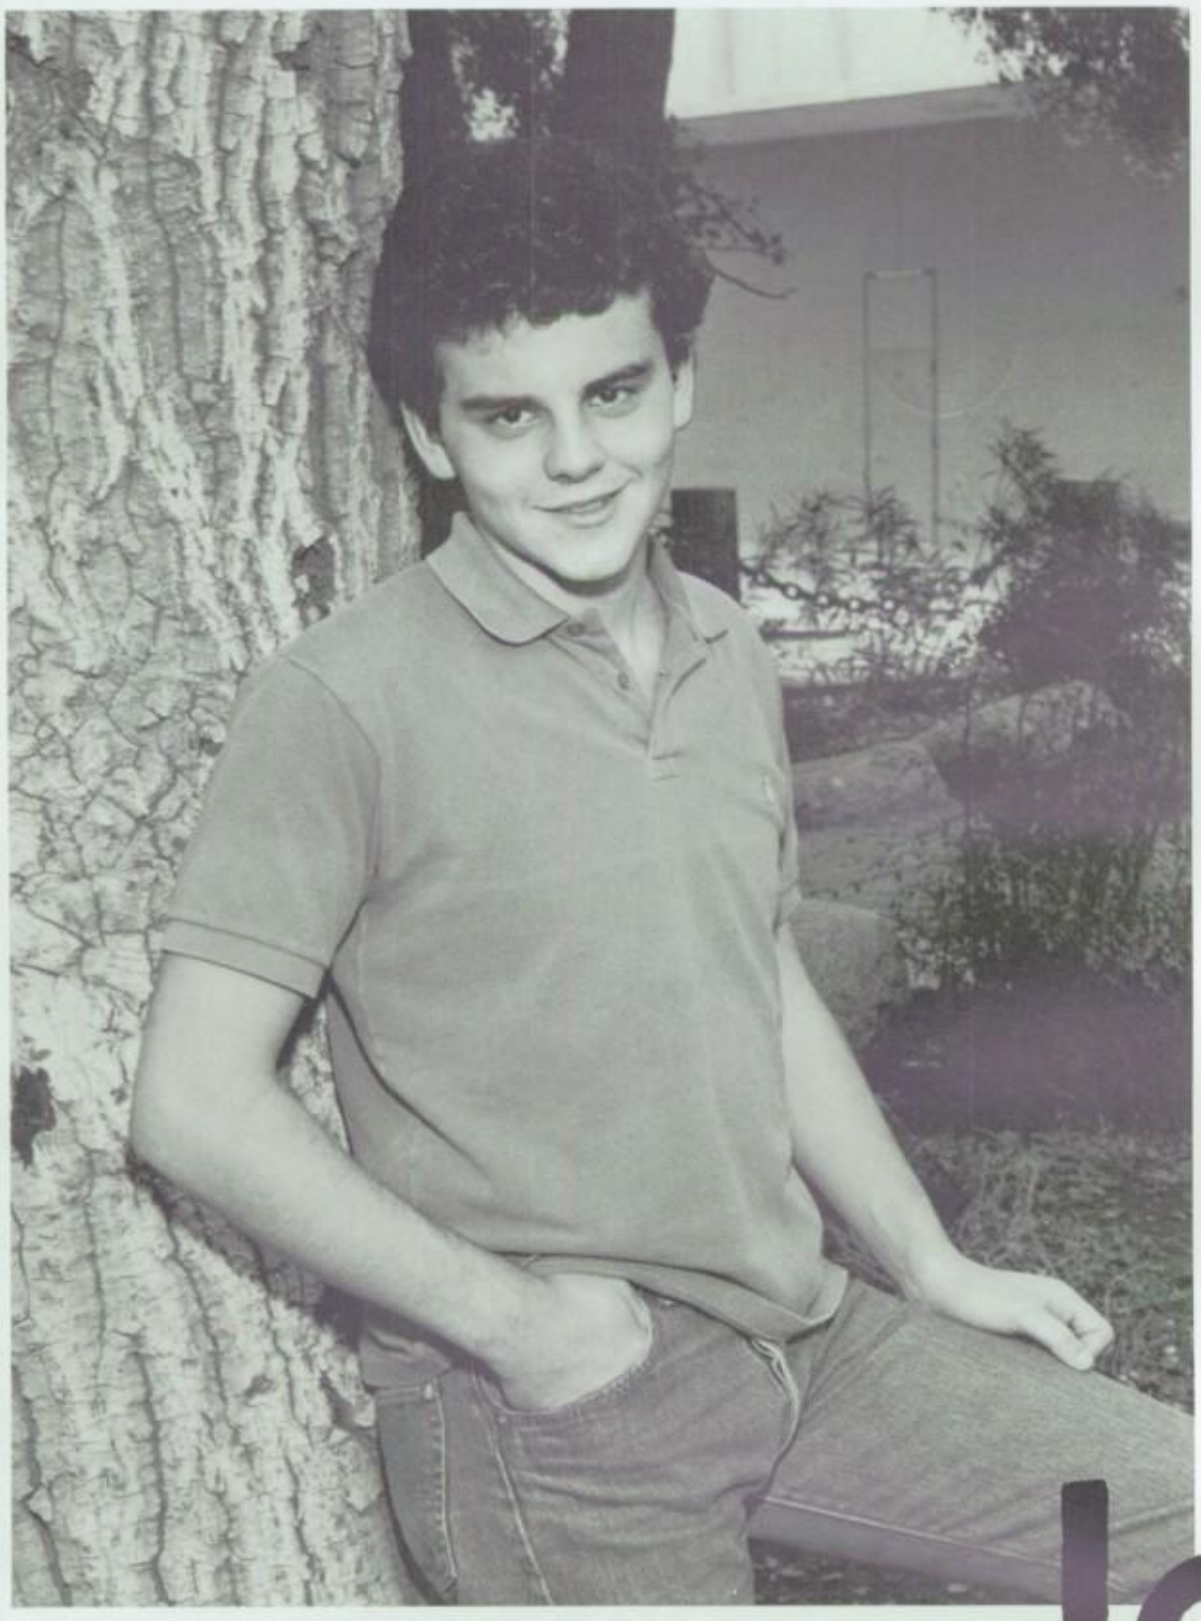
PHILIPPE WOLFF IS ALIVE AND WELL AND LIVING IN PARIS



I had a year at L.C. that I'll never forget. It is totally new for me. The school is alot easier here than in France. You have a cool schedule and choice of subjects, and a lot more activities. Thanks to all of you for your friendship, and thanks to the Wolpers, too!

If you are in Paris, give me a call or stop by.

Option II: It's a Free For All!

Option II contains some of the truest and most dedicated scholars . . .

Option II has been recognized as an outstanding academic program by the Western Accreditation Association and the California Teachers Association. Under the supervision of Ted Richardson (a.k.a. Professor Cool) and Dennis Sanchez (a.k.a. Professor Clean), it focuses on giving juniors and seniors the trust and responsibilities of equals, unlike the usual teacher-student relationship seen in the mainstream of L.C.H.S. Offered by only two teachers are the diverse subjects such as P.E. Health, required English and Social Studies, Creative Writing and Film Study, and, of course, the importance of underwater marble stacking. Any junior or senior may become a part of this unique program on a first-come-first-serve basis which fills up quickly with a long waiting list. A special thanks to Dennis and Ted from the option class of 1982-83 for giving us the best two years of high school!

. . . while the senior girls of the program are the most dedicated to learning by experience.

Professor Clean in action.

What does P.T.S.A. mean to you? You ask what is that? Hey, you imbeciles, haven't you heard of the Parent Teacher Student Association? This fabulous organization is comprised of dedicated parents, devoted teachers, and misplaced students who enjoy counting hors d'ouevres. Little do you realize that this mötley creü seen above works diligently hauling newspapers (by telekinesis), scorching themselves in the heat of the quad pushing melted peanut butter chunks, and pigging out on finger sandwiches, led by Queen Pig T.T. All and all, The La Canada P.T.S.A. is truly a commendable organization for its worthy contributions to parent teacher student communications and support.

Controversy loomed again this year concerning taxes, inflation, time schedules, reduced funding, contract negotiations, trash and everything else. Yet, the students at L.C.H.S. always manage to succeed and do great things. The Associated Student Body, led by Jim Harvey and kept afloat by Joan Williams, had another great year! The new government set the theme for the year as BIONIC (Believe it or not I care.)

This year turned out great with all the traditions of the past and some new ones of our own. Football Homecoming, car rallies, dances, blood drives, earth ball wars, spaghetti dinners, Tommy, class competitions, visits to convalescent homes, Taps, school board petitions, and exchange days are just a few of the tremendous activities!

To close the year, we would like to leave with you one last wish, "That I may care enough to love enough to share enough to let others become what they can be." — John O'Brien.

Congratulations, and Thank You for a great year! Good-night.

Retail Merchandising for People with Special Needs

The student store is the place for me!

Under the leadership of Mrs. Estes, the special students from Oak Grove come daily to the high school to learn the basics of store management. The students are taught how to buy and sell merchandise and function in a business and job situation. At 8:30 every morning the class arrives from Oak Grove and sets up the store. They are in charge of stocking surplus, counting money, cleaning and complete store management. The program has helped these Special Individuals to become competent consumers and function in a modern society.

Within the Senior Class of 1983, there lies talent in academics, athletics, art, and leadership. In academics, we have an overabundance of 4.0's and every other senior is in an A.P. class of some sort. Athletically, we have shown our press in awesome soccer, wrestling, girls' and boys' tennis, and girls' and boys' track teams. In art, we have created with paint, clay, music, and any other mediums possible. Leadership wise, we have quite a few future senators and maybe even a President or two. With the help of the Senior Class of 1983, and especially these outstanding few, the United States may survive.

Cocaine and heroin just don't mix.

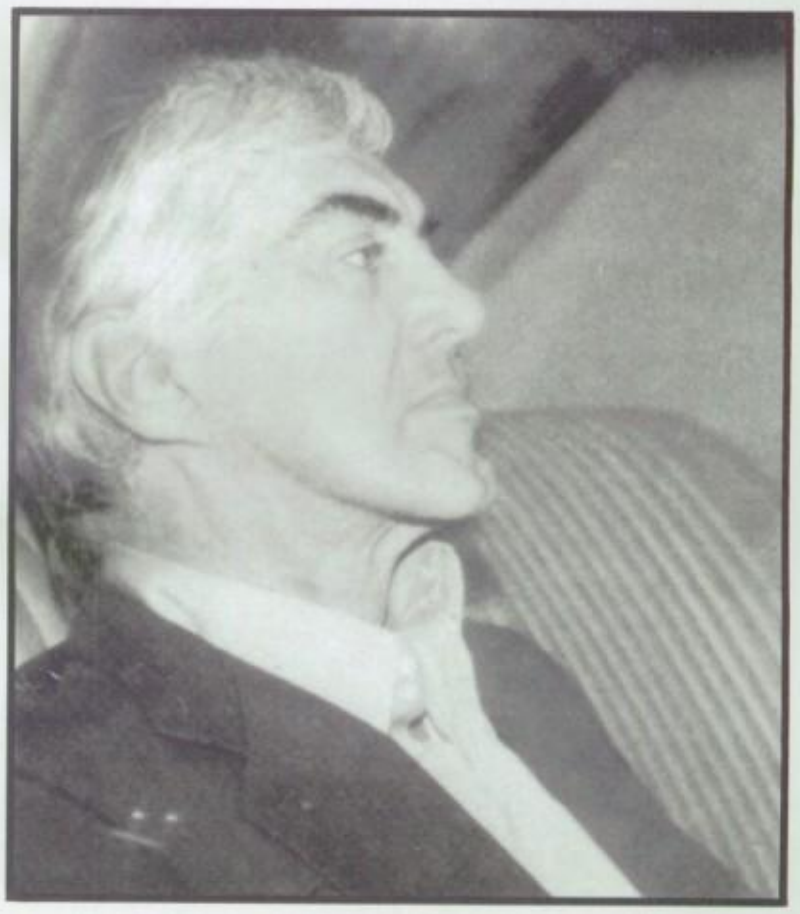
Handsome, wasn't he?

Population control of the 80's

Mahatmas II

I see nothing . . . nothing.

Would you let your daughter date this man?



Have a coke and a smile!

In addition to the semmingly uncomparable events that took place at La Canada High School this year, the world saw its share of happenings ranging from an attempted new method of airline passenger unloading to an unsuccessful automotive promotional sales gimick. 1982-83 was also a big year for dying with the loss of such greats as Henry Fonda, Princess Grace, John Belushi, and ERA. Death was also given a new twist with the introduction of the over the counter suicide available to the consumer in extra strength capsules only. This year also gave us a fine example of American justice with the trial of John Hinkley. In the entertainment field we saw the end of a tradition with the filming of the last M.A.S.H. episode, and a newcomer from the Phillipines took the box office by storm breaking all revenue records. From across the Atlantic we got Elizabeth's heir apparent and here at home Al Haig relinquished his throne to the formidable Sgt. Schultz. In a final note this year was one that will be hard to forget.

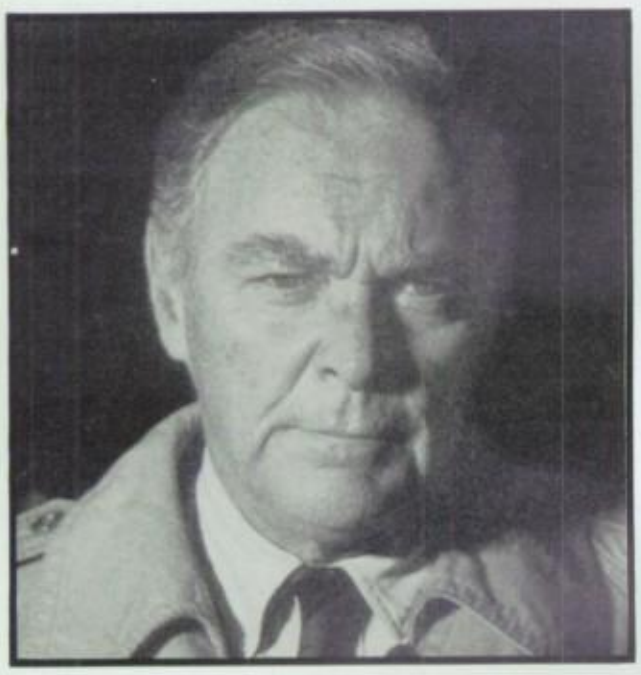
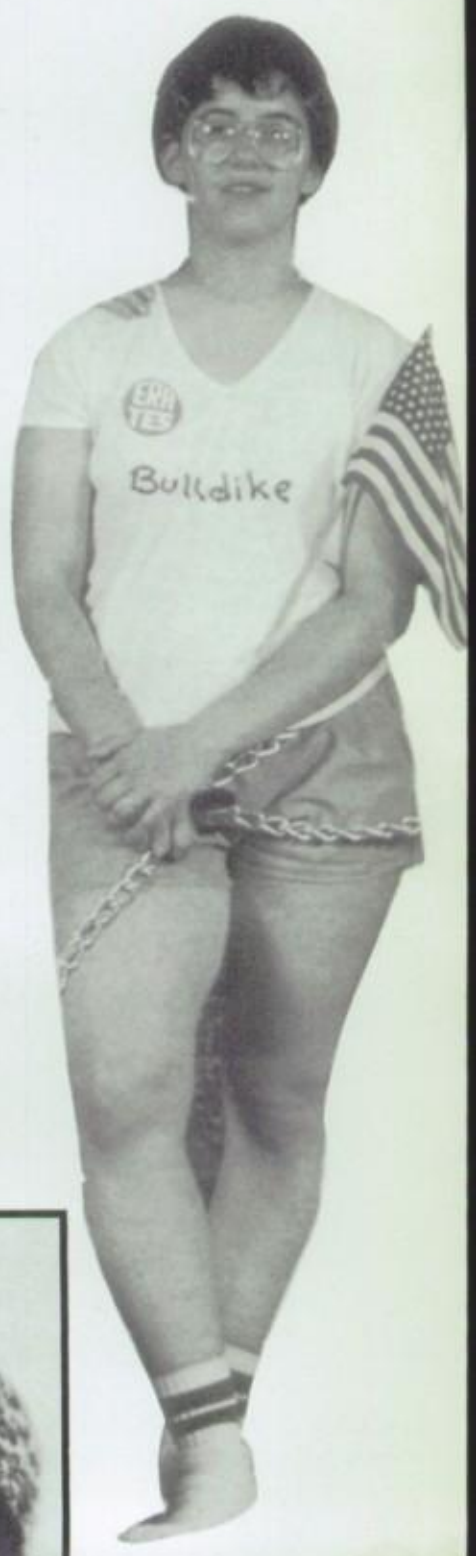
Oooouch!



Al Haig; man or myth?

Potomac cold plunge.



E.R.A. bites it.

That's all she wrote.

EDITOR'S NOTE

. . . . "I didn't know what day it was when I walked into the room" — You know, I've been sitting here thinking what a funny thing a yearbook is; you spend approximately 6,879 ⅔ hours in a decomposing room with "half lunitics and animal" playing with pictures and words contemplating the intrinsic genre (one last time for those of you who haven't reached a fabulous reality that this entire book may be a whopping paradox) of the last dehydrated . . . . . Bazooka bubble perched of the cork. Crunchy or puffy you ask? Well, it's after 2:30 a.m. so I'll take puffy for 50. Enough of this! . . . . But you know what they say in the yearbook business, better a babbling book than a late one!

Well, before I sign off on a more serious note (as in music) I would like to thank all those involved in this suicidal production . . . . you've all been phantasmigorical!!! And to all the graduates, may we all live prosperous lives by being true to our dreams, facing reality, and realizing our individuality.

War, Hate, and Apocalypse Now,

Karyn Hazel Nelson

ILIAD: TONIGHT, ROAST PEKINESE

Normalcy before confusion? The calm before the storm? The farewell dinner of the Titanic, JFK's last wave of the hand, and the terminating octa tri weekly staff meeting of the Iliad.

It was proving to be yet another run-of-the-mill gathering of the minds catered exquisitely by Iris' fresh Tortoise and Pekinese cuisine (this will make you regular, hon!)

David Gilmour and Flint Hughes demonstrated their prowess in disembowling the furry-beast. Christy Barnes and Wendy Hagen are shocked at the rude intrusion of antic photographer Andy Taylor, while Rachel Englisha and Cindy Spanish attempt to hide from reality (the lens of life.) Kirstie McCornock hungrily views the anticipated meal, unaware of Bart Kendall's desires. The detached Southern Belle, Robin Rivers, wishes to go Mud Hogging. Margaret Klumpp, always wanting to drive thing to the hilt, lends a helping hand to Noelle Bachand in lobotomizing an unfortunate staff member. Mafia-men Mike Hanna and John Saul — (who knows where they're looking or what they're seeing?) Unsatisfied with the Orthodox affair, Bob Meeker, decided to take culinary matters (Mark Humphries) into his own hands (so to speak.) Suffering from severe back discomfort, Fred Beshid looks on for a buck. Meanhile, Craig Woolson extricates unwanted olfactory hairs, to be caught by Fred's plate, for a buck (they do it in the movies, don't they?) Iris' Boys, Dork A-something, and Kelfy Blaine provide the whine? Contemplating a quick getaway, Sam Farmer, Kevin "Sock Her" Woodhouse, and John "Tan Him" Tanner, wonder if the walls will cave in before the candles turn to Otter-Pops. Mark Talley period. Advisor Jimbo MacDonnel and staffers Lisa Goldbrick and Marry Truer could not be present due to severe cases of Boccilism. The school Board was later said to have confiscated these cases for a controlled substance search.

Before you form a mob and attempt to kill us, please let us explain that we as the 1983 Omega Staff have compiled these ridiculous prophesies in complete fun and in no way mean most of them . . . oops, any of them . . . okay, there was one that we meant. Just kidding. We do here by apologize for any slanderous statements we may have made. Just kidding (oops typo). But, just be glad we didn't say all the things we wanted to say. You don't know how lucky you really are!

Omega Dedication

Linda Laine

We are honored to dedicate this year's Omega to an outstanding mathematics teacher, Linda Laine. Mrs. Laine has been an innovative force in creating new teaching methods to meet the individual needs of her students. It is always a joy to see her during activities week as she shows her school spirit with her bizarre and creative costumes. Mrs. Laine is a very cooperative, energetic lady and well-loved by the entire student body. It is with great respect that we, the Omega class, with "a song in our heart," dedicate the 1983 Omega to you!

Senior Salute

Phil Pack

Don't let this easy going laid back picture fool you. Phil Pack, Science Department Chairman, Yosemite Institute organizer, and A.P. Biology teacher is the type of person that overflows with energy. Any senior that has had "Phil" (as he likes to be known) as a teacher or hiking companion would realize that he is an intelligent, dedicated, and witty human being. The class of 1983 salutes you Phil Pack.
